Therefore be it

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing resolutions be transmitted to the president of the United States and that he be requested to make in his next annual message to the congress of the United States such recommendations with reference to the location of a deep water harbor on the Gulf of Mexico as he shall seem proper and expedient.

Senator Houston then presented a minority report, which is as follows:

First Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that the commercial, agricultural, stock raising, mining and manufacturing interests of the states and territories west of the Mississippi river, as well as the commerce and trade of the United States with other countries demand at least one deep water port on the coast of Texas.

Second. That the senators and representatives from the states and delegates from the territories west of the Mississippi river be requested by a memorial from this convention to urge at once the appointment of a competent board of engineers for the purpose of selecting a location on the gulf coast of Texas for a deep water port, to be secured in the shortest time and for the least cost, and at which the best and most accessible harbor can be secured and maintained.

Third. That said senators, representatives and delegates be, and they are hereby earnestly requested to secure adequate appropriations, at once available and permanent, sufficient in amount to give assurance of continuous prosecution of the work to its speedy and successful completion.

Fourth. That for the carrying into effect of the foregoing resolutions committees to consist of five from each state and three from each territory represented in this convention be appointed by their respective delegations; that it shall be the duty of said committees to see that the object of said resolutions be properly presented and vigorously urged before congress, and to that end and with a view of co-operation and concert of action the chairman of the respective committees shall be and they are hereby constituted and created a central committee.

Fifth. We endorse any effort of private enterprise to secure deep water on the Texas coast, and pledge our influence to induce the general government to reimburse persons engaged in enterprises at any point on the gulf coast of Texas where found by the government to be successful.

Sixth. We approve the idea of securing deep water at Aransas Pass by private capital, and hereby request our senators, representatives and delegates in congress to support a bill with the proper safeguards for the protection of the government, making a contract with the person or persons offering to engage in the enterprise to do the work, and reimbursing them for the successful prosecution of the same.

A Colorado delegate moved the adoption of the majority report. Senator Houston moved the adoption of the minority report. Ex-Governor Gibbs presented the following resolution:

WHEREAS, It is of the greatest importance to the entire producing interests of the west and northwestern portions of the United States that they have a deep-water outlet to the markets of the world, be it

Resolved, That this convention urge upon the congress of the United States the importance of appropriating and expending as soon as possible a sufficient amount of money to secure two harbors on the 400 miles of Gulf coast of Texas, one to the east and one to the west, the location of these harbors and their improvement to be left to civil engineers selected by the government, and the harbors to be of sufficient capacity to accommodate all the commerce tributary thereto, the appropriation not to be expended till all necessary safeguards are provided to prevent excessive wharf charges.

All the resolutions were earnestly supported by the different gentlemen introducing them. The debate over the merits of each grew so warm that it ran into personalities and for a few moments it seemed the convention would break up in a row. Governor Thayer finally secured order and the convention took a recess until 8 o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

The deep water convention reassembled at 8 o'clock, and began discussion on the majority and minority reports of the committee on credentials. The debate lasted until midnight, when they adopted the majority report and adjourned till 11 a. m. to morrow.

An Irish View.

DUBLIN, August 30.—United Ireland says that rampant American senators, in rejecting the fisheries treaty, gave England terrible proof of the power of retaliation of the greater Ireland across the sea whose vengeance Balfour's coercion policy has aroused. It says the arrest of the Redmond brothers will incite fresh vengeance. The paper condemns the action of a Cork band in refusing to play a national anthem at an Irish exhibition in London, and says only hypocrites and sycophants repay neglect and cold aversion with a semblance of enthusiastic personal loyalty.

Murder by Footpads.

CHICAGO, August 30.—This morning footpads waylaid Fred S. Lumbard, a well known young man, and when he attempted to defend himself shot and killed him and escaped. The object was robbery. The pockets of the murdered man were rifled. Besides money, a gold watch, diamond ring, stud and scarf pin were taken. Three men ran away immediately afterward. No clue

RETALIATION LAW.

The Retaliation Bill Demanded by the President

Reported from the House Committee of Foreign Affairs.

Its Members Agree to its Form Without Partisanship.

Cullom Opens the Retaliation Message in the Senate.

The Retaliation Bill.

WASHINGTON, August 30.—The committee on foreign affairs today discussed the report of the sub-committee on the retaliation bill. The chairman of that sub-committee reported the conclusions of his sub-committee to the full committee, which were received without dissent and with cordiality, and he hoped it would continue to do so. He referred to the fact that the bill introduced by himself was based on a clause containing a restrictive railroad provision. [illegible] most unanimously, though the railroad section was subsequently [illegible] in the senate. The committee unanimously adopted the amended bill reported by the sub committee. It is understood that the bill will be taken up for action on Saturday.

Following is the text of the substitute adopted:

"Be it enacted, etc.: Whenever the president may deem it his duty to exercise any of the powers given him by the act entitled 'An act to authorize the president of the United States to protect and defend the rights of American fishermen, American trading and other vessels, in certain cases, and for other purposes,' approved March 3, 1887, it shall be lawful for the president in his discretion by proclamation to that effect to suspend in whole or in part transportation across territory of the United States in bond and without payment of duty of goods, wares or merchandise imported or exported from any foreign country from or to the British dominions in North America.

SECTION 2.—Whenever the president shall be satisfied there are any discriminations whatever in the use of the Welland canal, St. Lawrence river canals, Chambly canal, or either of them, whether by tolls, drawbacks, refunds or bills or otherwise, which is or may be detrimental to the commerce of the United States, or any of its citizens, it shall be lawful for the president in his discretion to issue a proclamation to that effect, whereupon there shall be collected a toll of twenty cents a ton upon every foreign vessel and her cargo passing through either the Sault Ste. Marie or St. Clair Flats canal, and the secretary of the treasury may authorize and direct any of the custom officers to collect the tolls levied under this act. If the president may in his discretion, when satisfied there is any such discrimination, prohibit the use of said canals to any such foreign vessels. The president, when satisfied such discrimination has ceased, may issue his proclamation to that effect in his discretion, whereupon the toll authorized by this act shall no longer be collected, and said prohibitions, if ordered, shall cease.

That the secretary of the treasury is authorized to make any regulations needful to carry this act into effect.

At only one point was there anything like a difference between democratic and republican members. This was upon a proposition coming from republican members that courtesy to Great Britain required that it should be notified that article 29 of the treaty of Washington had been practically nullified and abrogated upon refusal or denial of the rights of American citizens in Canadian ports. Upon this proposition there was a division on party lines, resulting in its defeat, 5 to 6. When the question came up on ordering favorable report on the substitute bill, however, there was not a negative vote. Republican members do not expect the bill will meet with any opposition from their side of the house, when called up, although the proposition rejected today may be renewed and serve as a basis for some speeches, in which the position will be taken that the president already has sufficient power to do what he desires in the way of retaliation.

Fiftieth Congress.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, August 30.—Mr. Blair offered a resolution, which was referred to the committee on contingent expenses, instructing the committee on interstate commerce to examine fully into the system of mechanical telegraphy now on exhibition at the capitol, and to secure the aid of competent and disinterested experts. He explained the object of his resolution to be to have this system of telegraphy examined, and if found to be as represented to secure for the benefit of the people. He had been told by Mr. Craig, the owner of the patents, that two thousand words could be sent on wires at the cost of single letter postage.

The senate then resumed consideration of the president's retaliation message, and Mr. George proceeded with his speech which was begun yesterday. He denied the correctness of the assertion by Mr. Edmunds last week that the president had the right to suspend the operation of the section of the revised statutes which allows the transit of goods between the United States and Canada without the payment of duty. To do so would be to exercise autocratic power.

Cullom addressed the senate on the same subject. He said [illegible] of the United States being destined to dominate the American continent, and expressed the opinion that in the not far distant future the Canadian provinces would become part of the United States. Rejection of the fisheries treaty had not, he said, the approval of a very large majority of the people of the country. The retaliation measure might be fairly taken as evidence that even the president had become satisfied that the treaty was a mistake. To retrieve what he had lost by the mistake the president had launched out into a broader sea and would find himself in deeper water than ever, and with greater dangers threatening him.

Cullom then addressed himself to the details of the subject, going extensively into the question as to whether the secretary of the treasury had not the power to prohibit shipments from Canada to United States ports for exportation. He argued the secretary of the treasury had power practically to prohibit such tran

Wolcott's Success.

DENVER, August 30.—Republican primaries were held today. Wolcott delegates were elected in every ward of the city by very large majorities.

High License in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 30.—The Pioneer Press reviews the first year of high license in Minnesota and finds the system has proved all its friends claimed for it. [illegible] saloons [illegible] the law went into [illegible] consumption of liquor in nearly every county; low groggeries are closed; and the liquor business under better police supervision. Then the cost of license averaged $300, total income $850,000; now $650, and $100,000 income.

The Wheat Crop Short.

NEW YORK, August 30.—The Times has a long cable, which estimates the old world's needs at from 70,000,000 to 80,000,000 bushels of wheat more than the harvests of the year will produce. To put it in another way, the countries which always have to buy wheat must this year buy 120,000,000 bushels, while the countries having more than they can consume will have about 235,000,000 [illegible] to sell.

The storms of the past week have greatly damaged wheat in England, and the great wheat producing country of France, which was thought a week ago would import [illegible] bushels, will now have, it is estimated, to import 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 bushels. Algiers cannot supply much on account of grasshoppers.

The best estimates put the surplus of the United States and Canada at 167,000,000, Russia 80,000,000, and India 45,000,000, but all sorts of stories are coming from Russia, latterly unfavorably.

In London bread has gone up one penny per loaf. The potato crop in England and Ireland is a partial failure, and great distress is believed certain.

The Times, summarizing the reports from all parts of the United States says that it is enough wheat for home consumption, but not a great deal to spare.

Acting Printer Benedict.

WASHINGTON, August 30.—Representative Dallinger has completed his minority report, upon the result of the investigation of the printing committee into the government printing office. The report is bitterly evident of Public Printer Benedict, and the majority of the committee. The report defends the Rounds administration as honorable and conscientious and able and declares that enough violations of the law and evidences of incompetency have been shown by the testimony to warrant the immediate removal from office of Mr. Benedict.

Mr. David Copeland has purchased the lot and building formerly built and owned by F. P. Spoon. Mr. Copeland is a ranchman who is located too far out from the town for his children to attend school and he is preparing to move his family in during the school year. There are many other ranchmen who would do the same if they could rent residences in town but there are none to rent.

The wife of Dr. J. P. Claybaugh, of Colorado Springs, arrived at Florissant on Wednesday, and will remain some time for the benefit of her health. She visited this section of the county several weeks ago and improved rapidly. After returning to Colorado Springs she grew worse, and has again sought the mountains. If she is benefited by the change the doctor will follow and locate here. He received a classical education at Monmouth college, Illinois, and holds a diploma from Rush college, of Chicago. He has had a successful practice for a number of years and will be gladly welcomed to Florissant.

A Mysterious Disease.

CALDWELL, Ohio, August 30.—A month ago a mysterious disease appeared. It had some characteristics of typhoid fever and some of malaria. Whole families were attacked. In the course of a fortnight nearly every family in town was affected. The death rate became alarming. Many families left town. Business was almost paralyzed. Funeral processions were almost constantly in the streets. The physicians are nearly worn out. The medicine seems to have done no good. The disease does not appear to be infectious except to residents here, for outsiders are not affected. It is believed the disease is caused by germs in the water. The town has no system of drainage. The number of deaths is now 25; population 1200.

THE IMPENDING EUROPEAN WAR

Views of one of the most Distinguished Publicists of the Old World

Brussels August 10 1886

It seems to me that when Americans consider the whole of Europe covering itself with fortresses and with millions of soldiers armed to the teeth they must take us all for madmen for after all what are rival nations at most to fight at the cost of a most fearful war two provinces on the one hand Alsace Lorraine and on the other Bulgaria which together are not equivalent to Texas with of the United States in a single year either as regards population or extent of territory

What a difference there is in the situation of the two continents You Americans live in the certainty that no danger threatens you and with the prospect of boundless and continuous development of a nature grander and more powerful than any example yet offered by history We Europeans tremble at the thought that to me we perhaps will commence this terrible double race war rival races which all now regard as inevitable and imminent and in the meantime we make deficits in our budgets and devour the substance of our people in order to be enabled at the first signal to massacre as many of our fellow beings as possible

I will try to show the cause of this distressing situation There are at present as I have already stated two motives for war The one is Alsace Lorraine in the west the other Bulgaria in the east But the chief danger at this moment lies in the Balkan peninsula

How is it that what occurs in Bulgaria this remote little corner of our continent can so endanger the general peace which all nations and apparently all sovereigns are anxious to maintain? The reason is that we are approaching a moment in history when the destinies of the east and consequently of the whole of Europe will be decided

Russia liberated Bulgaria at the cost of immense sacrifices of men and money Can she allow this young country on which she conferred a constitution for her advance to the Mediterranean to escape entirely from her influence and become the advanced rival Austro Hungary? The moment is decisive and two contingencies are possible either Bulgaria apart from and in spite of Russia and later on under the auspices of Hungary will form itself with Servia and Macedonia into a Balkanic federation which Roumania will defend in the retrenched camp now created at Bucharest or else it will become the vassal and an advanced post of the Muscovite empire

In the first of these eventualities Constantinople and the shores of the Ægean sea would escape entirely from Russia's grasp and she could no longer look for expansion elsewhere than in Asia In the second case Bulgaria "Russianized," and one day incorporated in sure would probably break with Servia and perhaps Bosnia and from Philippopolis would have the control of the Bosphorus Then the occupation of Constantinople by a Russo-Bulgarian army would be nearer or later inevitable

Twice already Russian armies have advanced almost to within sight of the Golden Horn, and yet their basis of operations was then Ukraine, and they had to advance by stages crossing through Moldavia the Danube and the Balkans Starting from Roumelia they would reach the Sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus in a few days It would not be quite long for the peninsula which is Slav in race and of the Orthodox faith to become like Finland a dependency of the great northern empire

Under these circumstances could Greece still preserve her independence? And what fate would be reserved to Austro Hungary where the Slav population more numerous than all the other races united would with difficulty resist the all powerful attraction of the nationality principle?

When one reflects on the problem one comes to understand the irreconcilable antagonism that must exist between Russia and Austro Hungary For the two empires vital interests are at stake For Russia it is a question of her extension southwards and for Austro Hungary of her very existence On both sides much moderation prudence and mutual regard will be necessary to avoid a struggle

If such however did take place what would be the attitude of the powers? Turkey out of deference to Russia may declare to Prince Ferdinand that he is raising at Sofia in spite of the stipulations of the Berlin treaty but the sultan well made stands than he tolerates the black each in Roumelia he will shortly have to prepare to pass into Asia. Austria and Hungary most especially will never allow Bulgaria to become a dependency of Russia The two chief ministers Kalnoky and Tisza have announced with almost threatening decision that they would offer an armed opposition to any such step

Of late sometimes suggested that the two empires now contesting the Balkan peninsula should consent to go on shares Austria taking the southern parts with Salonica and Russia the eastern part with Constantinople But the position of Austria with such an arrangement would be impossible One of the most capable of Russian military writers General Fadeeff says that the road from Moscow to Constantinople lies through Vienna Nothing could be truer than this statement Austria must be reduced to complete helplessness ere she admits of Russia occupying the shores of the Bosphorus

If Austria therefore were to interfere to prevent Russia entering Bulgaria on what allies could she count The Austro Italian German treaty that Prince Bismarck recently thought fit to publish is not oblige Germany and Italy to come to the help of Austria save in the event of her being attacked by Russia and it cannot be considered that in occupying Bulgaria Russia would be attacking Austria In his speech on the 5th of February last year Prince Bismarck gave it to be understood that under such circumstances it would not be in the Germany to assist her ally Nevertheless it is not a battle that Germany would not come to the aid of Austria if this power were led to oppose an armed resistance to a Russian army entering into Bulgaria

The two emperors Kalnoky and Tisza would not have been so definite and decisive in their proclamations in the chamber of delegations in the autumn of 1885 had they not received assurances from Berlin Bismarck when asked if Germany would aid Austria in case of a war with Russia replied that Emperor William insisted strongly on the community of interests which bind the two empires on the basis of the dual alliance between the two empires It is certain that he can not mean that Austro Hungary consider the integrity and existence of Bulgaria as of vital importance to herself If the treaty of Berlin does not mention that Austria would be supported in opposing a Russian occupation of Bulgaria this is as it would be for Austria to let it be clearly understood that Russia will invade and Austria will not come to the help of her ally but will remain neutral Kalnoky threatens that in case of the Cossacks in Sofia Prince Ferdinand probably realizes that if this were alone Austria would not be alone attacked

As to Kalnoky stated Austria must be not Italy and even to a great extent on England It is true that the English government has sought to interfere with the state of the Balkan peninsula and it may even I think be said that no engagement has been entered upon because public opinion and parliament are opposed to any [illegible] a decisive position on continental affairs Nevertheless if France and Russia which might draw England into the conflict in the first place the political parties are in favor of the independence of Bulgaria and consequently averse to Russian influence and Mr Gladstone entirely approves of Lord Salisbury's attitude in this question as appeared in a letter of November 7 1886 to some Bulgarian deputies asking him to defend Bulgaria's independence Secondly if the victorious Russian army were to attempt an advance into the interior of the Peninsula it is doubtful that an English fleet would occupy the Black sea to attract their forces on Finally of a collision must take place sooner or later between Russia and England it would be better for the latter that the encounter should take place in Europe than in the deserts of Central Asia or the gorges of Afghanistan

Nor must we forget to mention Roumania which was rewarded for the timely help she gave Russia in 1878 by the loss of a portion of her territory She thoroughly understands that if Russia were to occupy Bulgaria she would be surrounded on all sides and would very shortly lose her independence She would therefore not allow the Russian army to pass over her soil and it is to repose this that she is now constructing at Bucharest an immense retrenched camp which would be impregnable against a very prolonged and almost impossible siege Whether there be a treaty or no Austria may certainly rely on the very valuable support of Roumania for the national interests of Roumania necessitate such an alliance

In the present state of affairs the whole of Europe would Russia count on the side of France Probably she could and the French army powerful as it is both as regards numbers bravery and equipment perhaps suffice to restore the balance But how and when would France be likely to intervene? It, as is probable, Germany at the outset observes an armed neutrality favorable to Austro Hungary but taking no active part in the struggle would France declare war against Austria which she could only reach by sea when the former would be defending the independence of the liberated populations of the Balkans a cause which should be as dear to Frenchmen as to Italians? There would be much hesitation and loss of time and probably in the interval the result of the campaign would be decided

What then would be the consequences of the approaching war? The following is the plan attributed to Prince Bismarck in the event of Austria and Germany proving victorious and Russia allied to France being vanquished Finland would be restored to Sweden and the Baltic provinces would go to Prussia Poland would be reconstituted with an Austrian archduke at its head and the province of Bessarabia would be given to Roumania In this way Russia would be pushed back to Kiev and the Dnieper and be almost shut out from the rest of Europe Nice and Savoy would be given back to Italy Belgium enlarged by the addition of the French departments touching its frontier would form a neutral circle and would be forced to enter the German Zollverein If France and Russia were victorious the first would take back the provinces lost in 1870 and perhaps also Belgium the second would claim Galicia and Roumania

Such are the events at the disposal of the powerful of the earth who are meditating the rearrangement of the map of Europe Let us hope for us Belgians the two belligerents Germany and France want to pass through our country and that is why in order to preserve our liberties and independence we are refusing the banks of the Meuse at very heavy expense

Let us trust that the anticipation of all the horrors of this terrible conflict will not be realized by reason of the fact that thousands of lives may be spared the arbitrators of our destinies from [illegible] of hostilities Happy Americans pity us poor Europeans

His playing is now the talk of The Mansions and Manitou House, while thinking seriously of organizing the card rooms especially as the doctor has signified his intention of returning here next season. If so the present rooms will hardly accommodate the guests who will be anxious to witness his playing.

George Manning until lately employed as a porter at the Barker house was arrested yesterday morning on the charge of burglarizing the office of that hotel and taking $2.00 cents from the money drawer and a number of cigars. This money and cigars were found on his person and at the examination before Justice Caldwell in the afternoon Manning admitted the deed and in default of $500 bail was taken to the county jail in Colorado Springs to await the grand jury's action. This is a case and the question of motive surprises Manning is an intelligent and fair looking young boy of 22, with no known vices except a love for gambling. He was without means and without employment, and it is likely that the desire to make his way to some other place prompted the act, as he did not take near all the money in the drawer. The facts developed yesterday that Manning is highly connected in Massachusetts and that his father is at present a wealthy banker and influential citizen of Lowell.
